There is always something unique to do in Santa Fe and the latest and greatest is Meow Wolf! It is hard to put into words how amazing this is so here is what their website has to say, "Meow Wolf is an arts production company that creates immersive, multimedia experiences that transport audiences of all ages into fantastic realms of storytelling. Our work is a combination of jungle gym, haunted house, children's museum, and immersive art exhibit. This unique fusion of art and entertainment gives audiences fictional worlds to explore." Be prepared to be impressed!

Because there is so much to do in Santa Fe we will be focusing on the Cerrillos Road area. You can either bring your own lunch or we will stop at a location where there are plenty of inexpensive options where you can grab a burrito or something quick to eat. There are usually food trucks in the Meow Wolf parking lot. Our two other stops will be at Jackalope and the Santa Fe Outlet Mall.

Jackalope is a folk art, home and garden shopping destination that is considered one of the top-five attractions in Santa Fe and is visited by over 900,000 tourists a year. You will be able to find beautiful things from all over the world.

We will depart at 9:15 a.m. on the south side of Johnson Field. (please see map) You can park in the “A” lot without parking restriction on the weekend. Our arrival to Santa Fe should be about 10:15 a.m. We will have 2 hours to explore Meow Wolf! At around 12:30 pm we will depart for a lunch location and then head out to our other destinations. I anticipate being back to Albuquerque at approximately 4:30 p.m.

I know you will enjoy this experience and I can hardly wait to share it with you! Feel free to email me if you have any questions regarding this trip at lmont@unm.edu

See you on Sunday, September 10th!
